$3,000,000 FOR LAWRENCE

Lawrence college, already one of the progressive and most noted institutions of higher learning in this country embarked on a campaign to raise $3,000,000 for new buildings and for equipment. More than a million dollars have been spent for new buildings.

It is hard to conceive a cause or a place in which this much money can be spent to advantage than at the college here. Influence, now reaching into many thousands of homes, will be extended over greater areas when more money is spent for instruction and for building is able.

Lawrence college has had a most remarkable history in the last three decades. 30 years ago it was barely struggling through each year but under the leadership of the late Dr. Samuel Zitz began a steady development and it is one of the largest educational institutions under the guardianship of the Methodist church.

Dr. Plantz early realized that money was necessary for development of the school and through his influence large sums were secured.

It still more money is required if Lawrence is to keep pace with other colleges. Three million dollars is a large sum but it is none too large to keep the school in the front rank of educational institutions.

Appleton has a particular interest in the success of Lawrence's new campaign. Anyone who has thought about the matter all knows that Lawrence is Appleton's greatest single asset and that what is good for Lawrence is good for Appleton. There should be a more ready response in the $3,000,000 campaign than there at home.

THE PASSING OF CUMMINS

At Iowa Mr. Brookhart has eaten up Cummins. The public career of Senator Cummins, one of the oldest and most distinguished members of the upper house of Congress, who in intellectuality, capacity for public service and actual service would make three of Brookhart, is terminated and he is permanently laid out. Mr. Brookhart is "vindicated" by suffering the humiliation of having a man who he elected in the senate to overthrow to a Democrat. The result also is a repudiation by voters of the senator who supported Americanism to the world court. Radicals at last gotten rid of a man who is alleged for the railroad transportation to guarantee profits to railroads, but which, as a matter of fact, did or pretended to do any such thing. The gross proceeds, therefore, are small. It is a great victory for superstitiousness, and it will bring rejoicing into the hearts of North Dakota and the more numerous hallelujahs of Minnesota and South Dakota.

The election is an anomaly in that the voters of Iowa have repudiated a leader framed Iowa's own plan of farm legislation, endorsed by the corn belt, and whose influence at Washington offered the only hope for favorable action on this legislation. The defeat of Cummins kills not only the Haugen bill, but any other advanced farm legislation the central West may offer. The election may be justly interpreted by consumers as showing that the central West does not know what it wants, although of course it does demand farm relief and the election emphasizes its resentment that nothing has been done. As far as Brookhart is concerned, he will scarcely be able to make an impression at Washington on any legislation. Farmers have traded an able champion in the senate for one without influence and with only mediocre ability. How they gain by the transaction is not easy to figure out.

In a general way the defeat of Cummins was to be expected. It means nothing concerning any specific issue. It has not the slightest relation to the world court. There is nothing concrete about it. It is, if it is anything, a blind revolt against existing conditions, without knowing exactly what the conditions are, who is to remedy them or what the remedy is to be. It is a blow of dissatisfaction aimed at nobody in particular and struck in the dark. It may gain something for Iowa and the central West, but we cannot see what it is.

TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT

A special committee of senate jurists appointed to determine the lawfulness of President Coolidge's executive prohibition order, under which state enforcement officers may be appointed federal assistants, has reported to the senate judiciary committee that the president is fully within his constitutional rights. There was no division of opinion regarding the legality of Mr. Coolidge's action. The committee holds that while the constitution does not confer authority upon the president to appoint prohibition agents, which he has not undertaken to do, he is fully within his rights in approving the policy of appointing persons already commissioned by states as federal prohibition agents "and is guilty of no infraction of the constitution or the law, either expressed or implied."

The senate wets, therefore, exploded for nothing. The storm of protest against the presidential decree was a storm of wind, and hot wind at that. Too many of our politicians and would-be heroes get excited about nothing. What the president did was nothing extraordinary, nothing unusual. It was merely approving a policy that better enabled him to discharge the paramount duty resting upon him of seeing that the laws of the country are satisfactorily executed. Furthermore, the president interfered with no prerogatives of the state, since his so-called order expressly exempted those whose constitutions prohibit dual office holding. All the hulla-ba-loo about invasion of states rights was a mere beating of drums.

Now that the sub-committee of the senate judiciary committee has also decided that a national referendum is not provided for by the constitution, and cannot therefore be legally held, which definitely disposes of the proposal for a national vote on modification of the Volstead act, how would it be if the liquor forces would aid the federal government for one brief year in actual enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act? The wets think a state referendum here and there will accomplish the same thing as a national referendum. We doubt it. A few states may go ahead with referendums, and they will be wet states, or those most likely to vote wet. The dry states, and there is little doubt they are still greatly in the majority, are not likely to approve referendums. Of course, in time enough referendums might be held to indicate public temper, but it will take a long time. The hope in this direction for possible guidance of congress is therefore not flattering. The wets have a long and hard road ahead of them. A few states may resort to nullification, but that will not of itself bring modification of the Volstead act, much less repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN

There's a girl in our office who plays quite a part in keeping us all in good spirit. She knows how to laugh and it's right from the heart. I honestly wish you could hear it.
You don't dare be grouchy when she is around and she sets an example that's rare. It seems that her judgment on living is sound when the facts in the case are laid bare.
There's always a way out of fixes you're in, but you'll never get out if you worry. Perhaps that's the way that her theory'd begin and she spreads it around without flurry.
The world, as a whole, would be better by far if we'd keep optimism in style. It's really too bad how few people there are who can constantly keep up a smile.
From the time we arrive, the young lady in mind is bright and we bid her ta, ta. She can smile, she can laugh, we need more of her kind. Oh, I love to hear Winnie ha ha.
Where you start doesn't matter half so much as where you stop.
The happiest ones are those who are busiest, so this may be why the bootleggers are winning.

THE HOUSE CLEANING HABIT
Bright and early in the "spring"—it seems only fair to clothe the poor thing in quotes—a demon housekeeper, pained and scandalized by the unkempt appearance of the streets and probably incensed by the popular grip or flu fancy, filed a complaint with the editor—I said the editor, you know, the fellow who just sits around here while we workers get out the paper—urging him to wake up the health commissioner and make him get after the street commissioner, so that the latter public servant, as we thing about the first half of November, might clean up the filth before the dog days arrive. This being a health problem, the editor, at times a man of rare good judgment, submitted it to the health expert of this newspaper—now that's me and I apologize for getting in this meeting a little late, but I'm sure you will excuse me when you remember that I usually get in before the second paragraph—and after careful consideration and deliberation lasting at least 1.2 seconds I advised that the health commissioner be permitted to continue his nap unmolested, at least until some grave menace to public health occurred, such as an undeniably dead cat in a rear alley.

Now we sanitarians, we modern sanitarians are fully cognizant of the role of animate "carriers" of disease, such as persons, cats, dogs, flies, mosquitoes, rats (or the fleas the rats carry), and we support and applaud every movement or plan which may help to discourage the commerce of these carriers. Inanimate objects or things neither carry nor "breed" disease, and therefore we cannot seriously concern ourselves in the mere esthetic springhouse cleaning, domestic or municipal; that is, we can't engage in such diversions without neglecting the real work of guarding the health of the public against actual dangers.

A curious reservation or exception is taken by the New York state department of health, in a recent radio talk issued by the department. In health department assures the public in this article (copy of which is distributed to the newspapers) that the snow, ice slush and accumulations of debris or dirt on the streets in spring are not the causes of disease, sickness or ill health. That is true enough. But wait for the funny reservation:

"Who hasn't heard the remark made, 'As long as our streets are in this condition of course we will have colds and lung trouble?' But Mr. Average Citizen is wrong. If we exclude from this discussion wet feet and the consequent chilling of the body, wet, filthy streets have no effect on health, except perhaps that they mentally depress us and take away some of the joy of life."

But if we consider wet feet in the discussion, then we sanitarians are not very consistent when we assure the befuddled people that the wet streets have no effect on health, for when the streets are wet thousands of people, particularly children, are bound to get their feet wet, and if wet feet are in any way a menace to health then the health authorities should by all means devote their efforts toward having the streets cleaned up.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Prenatal Anxiety

If an expectant mother repeatedly has frightful nightmares about snakes, what can she do to prevent her from going to sleep again for hours, what effect will this have on the child? Her health is good except that she always had some stomach trouble. (C. R. S.)

Answer—The dreams or nightmares will have no effect on the child. Loss of sleep may impair the expectant mother's health, and any impairment of her health is likely to prevent the fullest attainment of vigor, health and development in the child. If the prospective mother is assured that there is no possibility of "marking" the child, perhaps the dreams will not give her so much anxiety. I do assure her that "marking" is a silly superstition without the slightest foundation. If this prospective mother were fairly educated, not as girls and young women are being educated now in school and college, but as they should be educated, she would not suffer an instant's anxiety about any old wives' tales of "marking" or "prenatal impressions."

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, June 12, 1901

The marriage of Miss Josephine M. Pond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Pond, 465 Pacific-st., and Gustavus E. Buchanan of Appleton took place at high noon that day at the home of the bride's parents.

Marriage of Miss Anna Carruthers and Peter Drysdale, both of this city, was to take place at 7 o'clock that evening at the home of John McNaughton.

The Appleton baseball team defeated the Wausau team by a score of 10 to 2 in an exhibition game the previous day.

SOME BABY!
Rollo: Wonder if you would like to hear some more about Simpson Peasay? As I told you recently, Simpson did quite a bit of damage to the old timber in his infancy—so they built a floating cradle for him and anchored it off Eastport. When Simpson rocked in his cradle it caused a 75 foot tide in the Bay of Fundy. Several villages were washed away. He couldn't be awakened, however, until the British navy was called out and fired broadsides for seven hours over his head. When Simpson stepped out of his cradle he sank seven warships and the British governor seized his cradle and used it to build seven more.

BUTTON-BUTTON, WHO'S GOT THE KEY?

Rollo—Is Mayor Rule really going to hand the key to our fair city to George Abrams? Bet the sheriff would like to find George in the land where Cain found his wife—yes, Rollo, the land of Nod. Incidentally, I'm told that Abrams wrote "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage," but stands acquitted of any complicity in "The Prisoner's Song." Georgie didn't like Judge Eery, but it was downright ornery of him to fly the coop after inviting Judge Werner to his picnic on Thursday.

Q. Please give a description of the cathedral at Bryn Athyn. M. Z. A.

A. The Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce says that the cathedral at Bryn Athyn is one of the most magnificent and costly structures in the world. Every bit of stone that goes into it is being cut by hand and by expert stone cutters brought from abroad. It is being erected entirely at the expense of the sons of Mr. Pitcairn, former head of the Pittsburgh Glass Company.

Q. What will the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition cost the United States Government? M. P.

A. The Federal Government has appropriated the sum of $2,186,000 for its own participation and for an auxiliary building. Of this amount $1,000,000 has been allotted for exposition buildings other than the Government pavilion. The remainder is being used to finance the displays which will be sent by Government bureaus and the Army and Navy.

Q. Has the famous rose window of the Cathedral of Rheims been restored? S. E. G.

A. M. Henri Deneux, architect in charge of the work, recently reported that all the windows have had their mullions and their rose work restored, the bindings of the glass have been repaired or remade and the glass itself, for the most part modern, will soon be completely inserted.

Q. On a railway journey, I saw a party of Japanese eating from a tin box, thin strips of green substance. It was probably a confection. Can you tell me what it was? G. L. G.

A. The Japanese Embassy says that the thin strip of green substance, referred to is not a confection, but a Japanese food made from seaweed and seasoned with "shoyu." It is generally eaten in soup or with cooked rice at any hour of the day, usually at meal time. The delicately salty flavor, derived from the seaweed, combined with the indescribable taste of the "shoyu" whet the appetite much as caviar does. In this way it is regarded as an appetizer or a relish.

Q. What part of the grain is cream of wheat made from? H. B.

A. Cream of wheat is made of the "purified middlings" of wheat. "Purified middlings" is the white kernel broken into chunks from which the bran has been removed and from which the flour has been removed. The remaining particles comprise cream of wheat.

Q. Are ostrich skins ever made into leather? J. R. K.

A. Leather made from ostrich hide is made into purses, weekend cases, and other novelties. Since ostriches

Adventures In The Library

DO MOVIES STIMULATE READING?

At a library conference a teacher complained with a good deal of force that whenever a great book has appeared in the movies it is next to impossible to induce the pupils to read the book. "What's the use reading that—we've seen it in the movies" is the attitude of the average pupil, she asserted. Hence a great many children are deprived of the influence of the great writers because, she said, it is difficult to find a story that has not been translated to the silver screen. And since very many great books are spoiled in the process of being transferred to the movies, many pupils of to day get a distorted view of many of the great figures in literature.

CONVINCING ARGUMENT

The argument was convincing and it was made by one who was speaking of actual conditions as she had met them in her work. It would have been discouraging if there had not been another side to it. Because it is perfectly true that the very thing that makes a great book great is seldom transferred to the screen. Very many of the stories of the great novelists and dramatists are commonplace—often exactly the same stories that very poor writers have told, as is proved by many of Shakespeare's plays. But the great writers put their own spirits into them and turned them into literature. Usually only the commonplace stories can be transferred to the movies, and the pupil who has merely seen such a movie knows nothing about the book, at least nothing that counts.

Happily it appears that the experience of this particular teacher is not universal. A number of librarians testified that exactly the reverse happens when the movie of a great book has come to town. Instead of making the children feel that they do not want to read the book, they are stimulated by the movie to read the book, according to the almost unanimous testimony of the librarians. When "The Sea Beast" was shown, the demand for "Moby Dick" was so great that it could not be complied with—which is fortunate, because "The Sea Beast" is so much of a travesty on "Moby Dick" that by this time Herman Melville must have turned over in his grave several times. When "Little Women" was shown, the children almost staged a riot in the library, one library worker testified, trying to get one of the copies of the book.

Both these diametrically opposed statements are probably correct, at least each seemed to be based on actual personal experience, but it is pleasant to believe that the view that movies stimulate reading of great books is more universal than the reverse. Because the great books need advertising and whatever else may be said of the movies, they are a great advertising medium. They reach millions that cannot be reached in any other way. And if the movies give the child of the foundry worker his first news of "Ivanhoe" so that he wants to read the book, that movie has been a benefit even if in the process it has distorted the story almost beyond recognition, as is often the case. If the movies can serve as a ballyhoo for great literature, we can forgive most of the liberties that producers take with the stories of the great.

ADVERTISING STORY

There is an argument by analogy why the testimony of the librarians in this particular discussion is probably true of very many children. It is well known that serial publication of a novel in a magazine almost invariably stimulates the sale of the book. It would seem at first glance that when a story has appeared in a publication that has a million readers there would be few left to read the story in book form. But the fact is that serial publication advertises the book and makes readers for it. Library patrons will usually ask more readily for a book that has appeared in a magazine. Some friend has read it in serial form and his recommendation

And it is reasonable to suppose that the movies have a similar effect. They probably advertise a story and whet the appetite for it. So next time you need an argument to defend the movies think of them in their function as ballyhoo for literature.

Kaukauna—"One of the best class plays ever presented by Kaukauna High school students" was the way people spoke of the 3-act comedy, "Adam and Eva," presented by the graduating class at the auditorium Tuesday evening. A packed house saw the play which centers about James King, an American business man, who can make money but cannot manage his family and changes places with his business manager, Adam Smith with very romantic ideas of family life. Adam is successful in turning a house of useless wastes into one of comfort and peace and he finally wins the hand of Eva, King's youngest daughter.

Roland Rader was stage manager and his assistants were Lester Landerhuth and Bernard Schuler. Milton Ruth, M. Nemachow, coached the play. Music was furnished by the high school orchestra.

"FIRST YEAR" Fox Films version of John Golden's successful stage play of the same name, at the New Bijou today and Thursday, is an enjoyable comedy of family life. There is excellent acting and pleasing scenic effects, while the direction by that master, Frank Borzage, could not be excelled.

"The first year is a cleverly told story of young married life, showing the difficulties to be encountered before the party of the first part and the party of the second part come to know each other thoroughly. Matt Moore is cast as bashful Tommy Tucker, who becomes the groom and Kathryn Perry as Grace Livingston, the bride.

They lived happily without so much as one single cross word for ten months—and then just when Tommy is about to turn over a big business deal the quarrel begins.

The action from then on is filled with delightful situations. Tommy brings his big client and his wife home to dinner without giving Grace enough notice to get a cook. Result—Grace goes home to her mother.

J. Farrell MacDonald is the valued client; Margaret Livingston, his ex-chorus girl wife; Frank Currier, the old bachelor uncle, who smooths things over and Carolyn Snowden, the colored maid who makes things worse.

Others in the cast are Frank Cooley, John Patrick and Virginia Madison.

"PARIS" Playing with an Apache dagger—even for a motion picture—is like playing with a rattlesnake, according to Douglas Gilmore, screen actor. He sustained a painful wound during the production of "Paris," Edmund Goulding's new Metro-Goldwyn Mayer production, when he staged a too lively Apache quarrel with Joan Crawford. Miss Crawford's hand slipped, and the knife caught him in the neck. But later on, when they did their Apache dance, Miss Crawford had an accident that resulted in a sprained ankle.

The new story, coming to the Eite theatre Thursday and Friday, is a vivid drama of the Paris underworld, with Charles Ray playing an American tourist enmeshed in an Apache feud. Miss Crawford as an Apache dancer, and Douglas Gilmore as "The Cat," underworld ruler of Paris. Others in the cast include Mme. Rose Dione, Michael Vassari, Jean Galignon and others of note. Goulding directed it from his own original story.

CHINESE ACTORS IN "EVE'S LEAVES" CAST Two Chinese actors of prominence appear in important roles in support of Leatrice Joy in her latest star vehicle, "Eve's Leaves," a delightful comedy drama produced by Paul Sloane under the personal supervision of Cecil B. DeMille, which will be shown at the Fischers Appleton theatre next Sunday Monday and Tuesday.

So Jin is a well known Chinese heavy who is seen as a bandit in "Eve's Leaves." He is a veteran screen player and first attracted attention in the Pearl White serial thrillers. He has appeared in important parts in such pictures as "The Thief of Bagdad," "Proud Flesh" and "The Wanderer," and he had the leading role in the screen version of "The Bat."

Nambu, who has the role of an executioner in "Eve's Leaves," scored a success in "The Thief of Bagdad" and "The Sea Beast." He is an excellent character actor and vests his role of executioner in "Eve's Leaves" with gruesome artistry. The scenes of Miss Joy's new star picture are laid in China and aboard a schooner.

The action, although dramatic, is lightened by touches of genuine comedy. Robert Edson, Walter Long and Arthur Hoyt appear in the supporting cast.

Also vaudeville presentation and comedies.

Real porkers—little fellows with pink ears and curly tails—figure importantly in the plot of "Pigs," the comic romance of youth which John Golden will introduce at the Appleton Theatre tonight.

"Pigs" is a clean, wholesome and delightfully human play that will please theatregoers who treasure memories of "Lightnin'." The First Year, "Thank-U," "Turn to the Right" and the other John Golden successes. It introduces homely, everyday characters whose counterparts are to be found along Main Street in every city and town in America, but there is a pair of young lovers who are more than mere actors in a play. They are the personification of youthful romance or "puppy love" as it lingers in the heart of every man and woman who cherishes memories of a first sweet heart.

Frank Craven has staged "Pigs" and there are numerous touches reminiscent of "The First Year" in which the sunshine and shadows of young married life were revealed. Wallace Ford and Nydia Westman head of cast as "Junior" and Mildred and other players are Maude Granger, George, Henry Trader, May Buckley, Philip Harrison, Una Merkel, Emerson Treacy, Frederick Malcolm and William Cox.

EXPECT LARGE CHERRY CROP AT STURGEON BAY

Registrations for Cherry Pickers Camps Are Being Made at High School

One of the largest cherry crops in the history of the Douro peninsula is prophesied by the cherry harvesters association of Sturgeon Bay. The association conducts a number of cherry pickers camps each year among them being Camp Choc, directed by C. W. D. Cross, of this city. Mr. Cross on a recent trip to Sturgeon Bay talked with a number of fruit growers and everyone felt sure that this year would yield the largest cherry crop in years. All danger of anything happening to harm the crop is practically extinct now.

Registrations for Camp Choc have been rather slow in coming in this year according to Mr. Cross. He ascribes this fact to the poor crop of last year. With the close of school and a bumper crop predicted camp reservations probably will come in much faster it is thought. Mr. Cross expects that the quota for the camp will be subscribed some considerable time before the opening of the picking season. About 100 boys will be needed at Camp Choc. Several applications have already been received from boys outside of the state. Mr. Cross says:

Registrations will be received by Mr. Cross at the Senior high school and anyone wishing to sign for camp may call there any morning. Registration blanks also may be obtained through mail by anyone outside the city.

The camp probably will open about July 6 or 7 or as soon thereafter as the cherries are ripe. Pickers will be paid three cents a quart for early cherries with the stems and two cents and a half per quart without the stems. When the late crop is

MARTIN RESIGNS AT VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

Donley P. Martin, who has been teaching at the Appleton Vocational school for the last seven years, has accepted a position with the Kimberly Clark company, where he will be engaged in educational work. He will begin his new work in fall.

During the summer Mr. Martin will teach in the department of industrial education and Applied Arts at the summer school at the University of Wisconsin. This school is conducted for teachers wishing to get further instruction in the work they are doing.

Mr. Martin's price is lowered one quarter of a cent on both the cherries picked with the stems and without. The reason for this is because the late cherries are always much more abundant than the early and a higher price is therefore paid for all cherries.

Camp Choc is the only camp at Sturgeon Bay according to Mr. Small, who expects to give an excellent season as well as work. This camp was founded by J. M. Small. A camp and is being conducted along the same lines as formerly. A quarter and a physical director will be in the camp and evenings and Sundays will be spent in playing games, swimming, fishing, and camp meetings. Group contests will give the interest of the boys. Motives and rewards and group singing also will be a part of the daily program.

Last year a number of boys were turned down who wanted to go to camp because they did not get their application in early enough. The boys will be taken, a Sturgeon Bay on a special train.

Forty-nine applications for marriage licenses were made during May at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. KIWANIS NIGHT IS OBSERVED BY APPLETON CLUB

Four Members of Organization Attend International Meeting at Montreal

While Dr. Virgil R. Scott, president of the Kiwanis club, L. C. Sleeper, secretary, Gus Marston, a director, as delegates and J. L. Johns, lieutenant governor, attended the opening session of the Kiwanis International Monday evening members of the local club along with all other Kiwanis organizations in the United States and Canada observed "All Kiwanis Night" and Kiwanis "Zero Hour" in a program similar to that held at the international meeting.

The "Zero Hour" period lasted 15 minutes and included the "Fellowship Moment of Silence," the singing of "God Save the King" and "America," the reading of the message of John H. Moss of Milwaukee, president of Kiwanis International and the "Onward in Kiwanis" song. This program was carried out by every club in the two countries.

According to telegrams received from the Appleton representatives more than 6,000 delegates are attending the convention and the city of Montreal is Kiwanis mad. All lamp posts and telegraph poles on the central city streets are decorated with Kiwanis emblems, the streets are hung with banners and the windows of nearly every store and home hold "Welcome Kiwanis" signs.

"Cooperation instead of opposition is being taught by clubs such as the Kiwanis, to the business men of the world," said Dr. D. O. Kinsman, of Lawrence college in an address to the local Kiwanis club at their "All Kiwanis Night" meeting at Conway hotel.

Economic errors was the subject of the talk by Prof. Kinsman and he told how the applying of the organization and business service principles of the club helped in preventing errors. Cutthroat competition between business men is rapidly becoming a thing of the past as dealers get to know each other better through the luncheon clubs, he said.

Several vocal solos were sung by George Nixon and the messages from local delegates at Montreal were read. Approximately 60 Kiwanians and their wives were present at the banquet and program.

WIDOW OF OFFICER GETS NO PENSION

Because former police officer John E. Kobussen was not a member of the police department for ten years, his widow, Helen M. Kobussen, will not be eligible to receive a pension. It was learned at the city hall this week. The former officer lacked but three months to complete ten years of service on the department, the records show. He was sworn in as an officer Aug. 9, 1916.

As no application for pension had been received, no action was taken on the matter by the police pension board at a regular meeting last week.

ASK CITY TO PUT OFF BUILDING OF VIADUCT FOR YEAR

Traction Company Can't Finance Building This Year, Council Told

Appearing before an informal meeting of the common council Tuesday evening in behalf of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, P. W. Grogan urged the city to grant an extension of one year in the time allowed for construction of the viaduct on E. Wisconsin-ave.

Because the meeting was informal, the council could take no action on Mr. Grogan's suggestion, but will do so at its regular meeting next Wednesday night. In the meantime the aldermen will have an opportunity of studying the issue more thoroughly.

Both the Northwestern Railroad company and the Traction company are undertaking several costly projects this year and consider it almost impossible to finance the Wisconsin-ave work at this time. Mr. Grogan told the council: The two companies have asked for an extension of time but it also is necessary for the city to make a similar request of the commission, according to Mr. Grogan.

PLANS NOT READY

Even if the city does fail to ask for the time extension, it will be impossible to complete the viaduct by June 1, 1927, the time called for in the railroad commission's order. Mr. Grogan said. When the order was handed down, plans and specifications for the viaduct were asked for by June, but this time was extended to July 15. Neither the railroad company or traction company can have the plans ready by that time, and the city evidently is not preparing any plans for submission, he stated.

"If plans were presented to the railroad commission by July 15, it would require another two months before the contract could be awarded," Mr. Grogan said. "Work could not be possibly start before fall, and with winter to contend with only a few weeks later, the structure could not be completed by June of next year."

COST $125,000

"It also is apparent that the viaduct is going to cost much more than was indicated at the hearing here last spring. Instead of $80,000 the total cost will be in excess of $125,000. Although the cost is to be divided, neither the traction company nor the railroad can afford their share this year."

Although the suggestion was made by Mr. Grogan that construction of the viaduct at the same time that pavement is laid on Wisconsin-ave would mean that the street would be closed for a shorter time, fear was

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Increasing cloudiness tonight; slightly warmer in southwest portion. Thursday unsettled, probably showers in west and central portions; cooler in northwest.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
High pressure overlies the central portion of the country this morning, with generally fair weather, and moderate temperatures, though a few scattered showers are reported. This is in position to dominate conditions in this section tonight. Lower pressure is reported from the northwest, with high temperatures, and with rains over the Canadian northwest. This is moving slowly eastward and may cause increasing cloudiness here, probably becoming unsettled by Thursday afternoon or night. Temperatures will continue moderate.

Plumbers Meet

Twelve master plumbers of Appleton attended a social meeting Monday evening at the Conway hotel. The meeting was preceded by a banquet and the evening was spent informally.

expressed by several aldermen that the city might not obtain state aid on the paving program if the paving was laid before the viaduct. This matter also will be determined before next Wednesday.

BAND "PEPS" UP GROCERS AS THEY START FOR PICNIC

Forty Cars Loaded With Merchants Off to Green Lake for Outing

More than 40 cars with wholesale and retail grocers of Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kaukauna left the corner of N. Oneida and W. Washington-ave. about 8:45 Wednesday morning bound for Sherwood Forest resort, Green Lake, where the annual intercity stag outing was to be held in the afternoon and evening. Stops were made at Menasha, Neenah, Oshkosh, Berlin, Omro and Green Lake and more members joined the motorcade at Neenah and Menasha.

The 120th Field Artillery band played a concert from 8 to 8:30 while the grocers were decorating their cars with streamers and banners and also played at the places at which the cars stopped along the route. The cars were numbered to designate their places in the motorcade and a motorcycle officer led the way, followed by the band on a large truck.

Dinner was served in the main dining room of the hotel at Green Lake at 11 o'clock and the afternoon was spent with games. These included a ball game between the wholesalers and retailers, "barnyard golf" race of war, three-legged race, fat man's race, sack race and boxing. A boat ride around the lake, supper at the hotel and a "kangaroo" court also were on the entertainment program.

The purpose of the manual is to aid the new citizens in their everyday problems such as where to go to obtain work, labor laws, how to learn English, the public schools, duties of a good citizen and other valuable information.

FIREMEN OUT EARLY TO BURNING MOTORCAR

The fire department was called to two fires Wednesday morning. At 3:40 a call came from the E. John-st bridge where a car owned by Edward Reitzner, 227 S. Outagamie-st, had caught fire from a short circuit in the motor. The fire was extinguished with only slight damage to the car.

At 10:50 a call came from the corner of N. Locust and W. Washington-ave where a car owned by the city of Appleton was burning.

The Misses Lydia Becker and Helen Briese will attend graduation exercises at Oshkosh Normal Wednesday night.

How to make Strawberry Jam
Keep the color and flavor of the fresh berries

Your jam will taste enough like fresh berries to use in strawberry shortcake if you make it this new, easy, short-boil way with Certo. Save the following recipe to use for your first batch of strawberry jam.

Cut in halves lengthwise with stainless knife about 2 quarts of small or medium sized fully ripe berries. After halving, weigh out 2 lbs. berries, or measure 4½ level cups of berries, packing solidly into the cup until juice and fruit come to the top of the cup. Add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim and stir repeatedly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire, to cool slightly. Pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot melted paraffin.

The short boiling time, possible only with Certo, prevents the loss of delicate flavor and the darkening in color which used to occur during the old long boil. It also gives you a larger amount of jam, since you save the large quantity of juice which used to boil away.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jellifying substance of fruit refined and bottled. A book of simple recipes comes with each bottle.

Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Address Douglas-Peetun Corporation, 5640 Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y. adv.

CHARACTER IS GREATEST ASSET IN LIFE-GRAASS

Green Bay Judge Tells Son
In Great Wealth Alone
Does Not Mean Success

Menasha—"Education as I view it," said Judge Henry Graass of Green Bay in an address at the commencement exercises of Menasha high school at Menasha auditorium Tuesday evening, "is preparation for life. And when the child first comes to the public school it is the duty of the teacher not only to teach that child that one and one makes two, but also it is the instructor's duty to begin laying the foundation in that child for the building of character."

"In my experience in life I have become convinced that character is the most important thing in life, and the longer I live the more firmly I become convinced that character is the opportunities to its boys and girls which no other country can offer to its children."

Judge Graass' first appearance in Menasha as a commencement speaker, the auditorium was crowded and he held the attention of the audience for nearly an hour and a half in one of the most inspirational talks ever given before high school students and their parents and friends in Menasha.

NEW STANDARD
"Some have called America," said Judge Graass, "the land of opportunity; the land where the farmer, the laborer, the miner and the shoemaker can sit in our halls of congress; a land where any boy or girl can aspire to the presidency of the United States; a land where no limit is placed on the individual. The standard of American life is not measured in wealth, but in growth."

"We know that a great check book alone can never make a great man. I can name many men who are worth millions, but they are not great men. If a boy or girl wants to succeed there must understand there is something greater than wealth, that character is success and I believe there is no other."

"Character is the great thing, and if a boy or girl comes to me and asks what is the greatest foundation for success I would say character. Don't confuse character with reputation. Reputation is what people say about men. Character grows within me. Every day of my life I am building character."

"These boys are going out to work. Reputation is what they have to have to get a job and character is what they have to have to keep a job."

AGE OF MIRACLES
Judge Graass said we are living today in a miraculous age. Within a single century almost we have accomplished the most marvelous things in all history. He said it was only a short time since we carved this country out of a wilderness. He reviewed the more important inventions that have revolutionized the world since the colonial days and called attention to many prominent men who overcame obstacles and achieved fame through hard work.

It was the fifty-first commencement of the high school and O. H. Plenzke, superintendent of schools, presided. He said in former commencements the school had had lawyers, doctors, manufacturers and others for commencement speakers, but that this was the first time the students and parents had the pleasure of listening to a jurist.

Vocal and instrumental music was furnished by the high school orchestra and girls' glee club under the direction of Miss Irene Schmidt. The Rev. John Best, pastor of the Congregational church, gave the invocation. Helen Jones was salutatorian and Audrey Hare valedictorian. Superintendent O. H. Plenzke presented the diplomas and efficiency medals.

The class was composed of Carroll Bliss, Lucille Dombek, Celia Evans, Audrey Hare, Marguerite Helms, Edward Jape, Helen Jones, Clarence Landekron, Clara Mader, Kenneth Pakaski, Harold Perce, Sadie Reinhold, Rose Schmidt, Bernice Schmitzer, Mildred Stehr, Grace Walker, Lorraine Buchanan, Ellsworth El Inglobe, Gertrude Funk, Robert Hockner, Myrtle Holmes, Ethel Johnson, Vilbur Klutz, Kathleen Liebel, Clarence Mottl, Gertrude Pankrat, Lydia Reed, Malinda Sahrowski, Marie Schmidt, Doris Schwartz, Clarence Walbrun, Rena Zelniski.

The class officers were Edward Jape, president; Rena Zelniski, vice president; Vilbur Klutz, secretary; treasurer: colors, steel blue and gray. Flower, American beauty rose; motto, Crescent scientia (May Knowledge Increase).

The winners of the efficiency medals, personal gifts of the board of education for the highest average standing for the year in certain studies were Chemistry, Verle Bliss; senior English, Helen Jones; junior English Hillard France; sophomore English Verna Fahrbach.

The Flexibility of a Trust Fund

One of the great advantages of leaving your property in trust is that it enables you to place broad discretionary powers in safe hands.

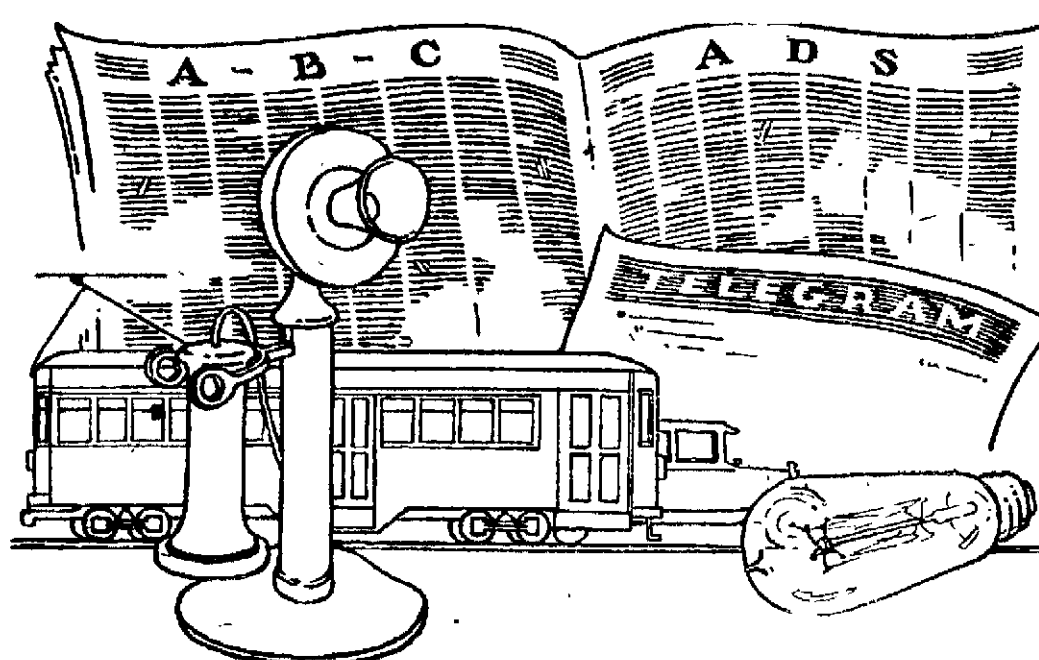

Perhaps for all ordinary circumstances the income alone from your trust fund would suffice for your family's reasonable needs. But in the event of serious illness, or in many other contingencies, you might wish the principal drawn upon. Such provisions you can incorporate in your trust arrangement.

You can include your life insurance as well as your property, in your trust fund.

A-B-C CLASSIFIED ADS

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JOHN and FAY MILBURN, to whom a baby girl has just been born, think they are justified in buying a home of their own when the young advertising agency in which John is a partner lands an important new contract.

John does all the firm's advertising copy writing. His partner, NATHANIEL GRAHAM, takes care of the business details.

Previous chapters told how John, while Fay was in the hospital, met NELL O'BRIEN at a swimming party and was attracted by her beauty and puzzled when PAT FORBES, his host, told him Nell was having trouble with her husband. Forbes, who has a wife and three children, hints to John that he is dissatisfied with his own marriage.

Shortly after the Milburns are settled in their new home, they give a housewarming and invite many of their friends. One of them, Paul Davidson, a bachelor lawyer, also an amateur actor and something of a libertine, precipitates an argument by declaring marriage a barbarous institution.

One of Fay's neighbors, a MRS. BLODGETT, calls, and Fay thinks she is "an old snoop." Later she calls again just after CLARA and MARGARET WAYNE, two of Fay's friends, have left. She sees the remains of cigarettes and, as Fay tells John, she fairly sniffed.

John hopes she won't be as bad as Mrs. Bixby, a gossip in their old neighborhood, and Fay says she certainly hopes Mrs. Blodgett won't get hold of the rumor Mrs. Bixby circulated.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XIII
"Which one was that?" John asked.

"Don't you remember?" said Fay. "You hinted one time that I had helped give you a start in business and she circulated the report that you had married me for my money."

"Lord, yes," he groaned. "Well, I suppose I was really to blame there. That comes of trusting any confidences at all to your neighbors. I should have known better. Fay, don't ever tell this Mrs. Blodgett a thing."

"Not a thing," he said. "I saw her husband today," remarked Fay as she started clearing away the dinner things. "I saw him come out of the house this morning. John, if anything, he's worse looking than she is. He looks like a pall-bearer."

"One of these lips-that-tough-lip-shall never touch mine," he said. "Well, if he comes over here I'll give him the shock of his life by offering him a drink."

Fay paused in her work and listened. "Was that Judith I heard?" she asked.

John cocked his ears. "Believe it was. Think I'll run up and see what's bothering her."

"I don't know what the matter with her," said Fay. "She's been complaining all evening."

John went upstairs to the nursery. Judith was lying on her back, kicking her feet viciously and squalling as if possessed.

"Here, now, what's the matter?" John demanded as he picked her up. "What's the big idea? Don't you realize you're making an awful lot of noise for a little girl? Hush!"

John, in his arms quivered down somewhat, but every once in a while gave a spasmodic little cry. "Now you go back to sleep," John ordered sternly and laid her down on her crib.

Immediately she began crying with renewed vigor, and John picked her up and bore her downstairs.

"Why did you bring her down here?" asked Fay. "Do you want to spoil her?"

"Well, something's the matter with her. I think she's got a tummy ache."

He walked the floor, holding Judith against his shoulder, and the baby quieted down and presently went to sleep.

"There you are," he said triumphantly to Fay, exhibiting the sleeping Judith. "The old man knows how to quiet 'em."

But at midnight that night Judith awakened them with a loud crying that would not stop. John, after pacing the floor for half an hour, finally gave up.

"Here," he said to Fay, "handing her the baby. I'll call Dick Menefee, and he grabbed for the telephone."

Young Dr. Menefee was over in jig time. "Well, what's the trouble?" he demanded cheerily. "Don't tell me this young lady is getting temperamental."

He leaned over Judith, pressing with his fingers on her stomach, listening to her heart.

"She's got a little indigestion, that's all," he announced. "Call it 'Colic' John asked, and Dr. Menefee laughed. "Call it that if you want," he answered. "Truth of the matter is, she has gas on her stomach."

and invited a large crowd, all of whom were captivated by Fay's mother's ready wit.

"Mother," said John, "you're spoiling us. I don't know what we'll do when you leave. How about staying?"

"Fay's father is half-crazy now," she laughed. "He'll be ready to shoot me if I don't get back soon."

A week before Mrs. Turner had planned to return to Chicago, the baby contracted whooping cough.

How she ever caught it was a mystery, for neither Fay nor John knew of any contagion within miles of their neighborhood. But one night John stirred vaguely in his sleep and awoke to find Fay leaning over the baby's crib and to hear strange gagging sounds from Judith.

"I know what that is," John remarked grimly, flinging his bathrobe about him. His face had turned white.

"What is it?" Fay asked anxiously. "Whooping cough," he answered, and put his arm about her at the back of her head and leaped to her eyes. "I've had it myself," he added. "I know how it starts."

When Dr. Menefee came he was more cheerful than either John or Fay believed he had reason to be in the face of such a dire thing as whooping cough. Mrs. Turner hovered around maternally, and Fay leaned on her.

"All she needs is good care," said Dr. Menefee. "We've caught it early. She hadn't even started to whoop yet." Very carefully, and so tenderly that the baby seemed scarcely to mind it he proceeded to inoculate Judith with serum, some of which he had had forethought enough to bring with him.

"A few more of these treatments," he told Fay and her mother, "and she'll be well before you know it."

Fay's mother was wonder-struck. Whooping cough inoculations were beyond her. "When I was a child," she told Dick Menefee, "we just had to let it run its course. They didn't have all these fancy remedies then."

"This is really wonderful," the doctor told her, "if you catch the disease in time."

John spoke. "Well, get a nurse, Fay," and Mrs. Turner looked at him in astonishment. "Did you think for a minute," she demanded, "that I was going home and leave a sick grandchild behind me? No, indeed! I'll be her nurse; then you'll have a good one."

Fay and John both protested at her "going to all that trouble," but instant relief had lighted their faces when they heard her decision.

Three weeks later Judith was pronounced cured, although a slight cough remained that Dr. Dick Menefee said might stick with her for some time. Mrs. Turner left, tearful at parting with the baby and exacting a promise from Fay to "come home for a visit as soon as you can."

"I don't know what we'd have done without her," Fay told John that evening. She had been sitting quietly in the living room, and John, knowing she was grieving at her mother's departure, had not spoken.

"She was a peach," he agreed. "I wish she could have stayed longer, but she really worked shamefully hard."

"Oh well, you know mother," said Fay. "Never happy unless she's helping."

"And didn't Dick handle the case just like a veteran?" asked John. "You know," he went on enthusiastically,

"I think he already shows signs of being a wonderful physician, despite his youth and the short time he's been practicing."

He lit his pipe and lolled back in comfort. "I hope Dick makes a lot of money. I hope he makes barrels of it. Lord knows he needs it. These young M. D.'s just starting out sometimes don't make enough to keep a sparrow alive. I'm glad he's marrying a girl like Margaret Wayne—a girl that's sensible and can help him save."

"Good thing he's not marrying Clara."

"Margaret and Clara dropped in this afternoon," said Fay the next evening. "To see how Judith was and to invite us to a party the Waynes are giving next week for Clifton Lane. That's the man Clara is engaged to marry."

"Clifton Lane?" John repeated with a comic frown. "Sounds more like a street than a man. Oh, well, what's in a name, as Shakespeare says? I once knew a man named Snickers, and he never touched a drop in his life."

"He must have money, the way Clara talked," Fay went on. "It seems he has his own brokerage business in Milwaukee and belongs to the Athletic Club and a couple of golf clubs. Clara is counting on having a wonderful time, I know."

"He comes pretty well pressed—agreed, all right," was John's final comment as he turned his attention to dinner. "How's Judith been today? Gosh, the work sure is piling up on me down at the office. Have to get a copy writer to help me, if it keeps up."

"They went to the Waynes' party, and John was vaguely annoyed, when he met Clifton Lane, at the other's easy airs, his faultless grooming and the sharp waxed points of his black mustache. There was bridge, and John drew Lane for an opponent. He was an expert player and John, who was only fair, was at his worst that night and was doubled three times by Lane and set each time.

"I'm horrible tonight," said John apologetically to his partner after the third disaster, and Lane said, "Yes?"

Another thing that irritated John was Lane's habit of saying "gad." It seemed to pop out of him with every sentence. John also got the impression from Lane's conversation that he shot eighteen holes of golf in the low eighties.

Fay asked Clara, "When are you going to get married?"

"Oh," Clara answered carelessly, "some time in the winter, I guess. Not too soon after Dick's and Margaret's wedding."

"Poor Dick Menefee," said Fay to John on the way home. "I'm afraid people will think that Clara, and not Margaret, is landing the real prize."

"Oh, I dare say Clara's wedding will be a fussy affair," John answered, "but I have no doubt about which of the two is the better man. I think Clifton Lane is the bunk."

"You mustn't judge on appearances," counseled Fay.

"I'm not. As appearances go, he's a hundred per cent, but I think he's a four-flusher, just the same. Did you hear him saying 'gad' all evening?"

Clara and Lane filled his thoughts as he sought sleep, and he dreamed of Clara that night, dreamed of taking her by the hand and climbing high mountain peaks, there to watch the glittering sea beyond.

It could never have occurred to him—he had no reason to suspect—the thing that Clara Wayne and Clifton Lane were planning.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an organization which belongs to the people. Fifty thousand stockholders own the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and not one of them—or any group of them—holds more than 5 1/4% of the total stock.

For the owners of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are not distinguished by unusual wealth or power. They are just ordinary people, remarkable only for their thrift and a particular pride in the big business that they own.

The three largest stockholders in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are the Rockefeller Foundation, the Employees, and the General Education Board.

In other words, the three most important stock holding influences in the Company are: a philanthropic organization to promote the welfare of the people, a huge working force of 15,325 employees, and an organization to advance education in all its phases.

All the people of our country are benefited indirectly by the work of the General Education Board, which has for its purpose "the promotion of education within the United States of America without distinction of race, sex, or creed."

From the Pittsburgh Sun:

When this became known to her friends a short time ago, Miss Perier told these that had belonged always to Mrs. Prescott and stipulated that the money she paid for them should go to John Alden Prescott, Junior, to whom she has taken a great fancy since she has been in town.

Mr. Whitney then asked his sister-in-law to place his purchase money in trust for his grandson, Karl Sydney Prescott. As soon as Mr. Whitney and Miss Perier knew that their requests would be granted, there began a friendly rivalry between them to determine which would pay, not the least, but the most for his part of the jewels, although no one in the family will tell what Mr. Whitney or Miss Perier paid for the most magnificent collection of pearls in America. It is known that the deed of trust executed by Mrs. Prescott a day or two ago, placed each of her boys among the wealthy young people of Pittsburgh.

All Society is agog with curiosity and it is expected that the Orthopedic Hospital will make much more than is necessary for their new building and improvement operation.

Night Letter from Paula Perier to Sally Atherton

Have just seen the story in the Pittsburgh Sun. I think it's very terrible. Who do you suppose could have told that I had asked that the money I paid for Leslie Prescott's pearls should be given to her oldest son? Would deny it if possible but am afraid denial would only stir up more curiosity. I hope that I will not have as much annoyance and grief when I possess these pearls as Leslie had. I am almost afraid that something is going to happen to me and then I say that I will not be so superstitious.

I have consented to appear at the bazaar three afternoons and evenings. I am glad they did not ask me to wear my pearls. Although it is much against my approval, the director of "Hot Steel," for advertising purposes, has asked me to wear those pearls in the sequence which will be taken at the mill. I can't make it seem right that any woman even a motion picture actress, would wear a million dollars worth of jewels when she walks through a steel mill.

However, I expect I shall have to do it, for in the bright lexicon of the cinema, there is no such word as "No." Everybody has to be a "Yes" man or a "Yes" woman.

TOMMORROW: Letter Written by John Alden Prescott to Paula Perier, But Not Sent.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Chocolate Drop Tree
The Twins and the little Fag-baz Whiffet, going alone toward Mister Snoopsy's cave where they certainly hoped to find the Whiffet's lost shadow.

All at once right beside the road they saw a chocolate-drop tree. So they all stopped and picked up some chocolate-drops that had become overripe and fallen to the ground.

Nick had eaten a walnut-mante and a caramella, and a chocolate almond, and Nancy had eaten a mine-patty and chocolate-covered Turkish delight and a chocolate cream-nut, and the little Whiffet had had six large chocolate marshmallows, when suddenly the ground opened at their feet and up came a house.

There, sitting on the front porch fanning himself with a stove-ild, sat the Nib Noh of Nobody's Land. "What?" he cried, when he saw what was going on. "Eating chocolate off my very best chocolate-drop tree! How very unstrabovarius! How exceedingly rastigulashus! How horribly--but there! There isn't a word in Nobody Land language bad enough to call that you are doing. Who are you?"

"We're the Twins," said Nick. "And this is the Whiffet. He lost his shadow and we're hunting for it. We're looking for Mister Snoopsy's cave in Hidy Go Land."

At this the Nib Noh of Nobody's Land gave a shriek and fainted three times. His servant with two noses rushed to fan him, and his cook with two chins rushed to pour water over him, and after while he came to.

"What happened?" asked Nancy. "Sh!" said Two Nose. "You mentioned his deadliest enemy. The name of Snoopsy of Hidy Go Land has not been mentioned in Nobody's Land for years 'n years 'n years. You almost did the business that time!"

Suddenly Uh Glub, the Nib Noh of Nobody's Land demanded, "What made me faint?"

"We were just saying, your Majesty," said Two Nose, "that it was a warm day."

"That's right," said Uh Glub. "Very! And if we don't get our chocolate-picks soon they will melt and run away. Who did you say these little thieves were?"

"We didn't mean to steal," said Nick. "The chocolate-drop tree was right here and all the chocolate drops were lying on the ground."

"Your faces are familiar," said Uh Glub. "Where did I see you before? Now I remember--you are the children who refused to get me a fire-engine, aren't you?"

"We're awfully sorry," said Nancy. "But really we didn't know where to get you a fire-engine."

"Well, I still want one," said Uh Glub, fanning himself more furiously than ever with his love lid. And if I can't have a fire-engine inside of five minutes--off go your heads!"

It looked pretty bad for the Twins and the poor little Whiffet. Nobody knew what to do exactly. Nobody wanted to lose his head, but nobody knew where in the world to find a fire-engine. But all at once--chug! chug! chug! rattle roar, bang! clang! There stood a perfectly good red and gold fire-engine not three feet from the place where Uh Glub was sitting.

"How very nice of you, my dears," said the Nib Noh in a honey-like voice. "I suspected from the first you were fairies. What make is it, and can it do hills on high?"

But nobody answered for nobody knew. Where it came from is still a mystery but I suspect the Fairy Queen.

INDIANS WILL HONOR FAMOUS FRONTIERSMAN

Sioux, Crow and Cheyenne Tribes Will Pay Tribute to General Custer

Denver.—(AP)—A half century has seen the signal flag of the Little Big Horn, where on June 25, 1876, General George Armstrong Custer led five companies of the Seventh cavalry to slaughter the new Seventh, under command of General Fitzhugh Lee, will face 3,000 descendants of these Sioux and Cheyenne warriors who killed Custer's battalions. But the Indians and calling men will unite in solemn tribute to the memory of the Red and Whiteman's dead. The ceremony under the auspices of the Custer Memorial association will be in commemoration of the semi-centennial of the famous battle.

A thousand Crow, allies of Custer by reason of their hatred of the Sioux, who poached upon their buffalo hunting ground, will be encamped nearby. They will participate in the revival of dances, tribal ceremonies, sports and customs of half century ago. From this Indian village, a reproduction of the one Custer encountered, the cavalry, with regimental band blaring forth "Garry Owen," will swing on to the historic battleground, where Custer, with his five detachments made their last stand the band will play a funeral dirge. From the valley below will come the Indians, chanting their death songs. At the crest of the hill, near a great monument on which has been carved the names of the fallen whites, these two forces will meet in friendship.

General Lee and Chief Yellow Robe, a nephew of Sitting Bull, will smoke the pipe of peace and bury the tomahawk. Memorial addresses will follow, with General E. S. Godfrey, one of the four surviving officers of Custer's Seventh, as one of the speakers. A message is expected from Mrs. Custer, the general's widow, who has always declined to visit the battleground because of the emotions she has feared it would arouse.

At the field where Reno's two battalions stood off the wild Chief Gall and his Hinopapa braves, a memorial will be dedicated to the men who fell there. Then taps will sound once more down the valley.

At the close of the Civil War, Custer, Davin and Merritt, Sheridan's divisional commanders, were commissioned lieutenant colonels and breveted brigadier generals in the U. S. army. On July 23, 1866, the Seventh cavalry was organized with Custer as lieutenant colonel. Col. Alfred Gibbs, Maj. and such names as Ben-ton, Keogh, West, Barnitz, West, Moylan, Commager and Thomas W. Custer among the commissioned personnel.

Following an expedition into the Black Hills to protect the hundreds coming into the new Colorado in 1874, an outbreak of Sioux claimed Custer's presence in the field. In 1875, his services on the northern plains began opposite the mouth of the Tongue river in Montana. On June 22, 1876, he set out from old Fort Lincoln on his ill-fated expedition in search of the village of hostile Sioux, moved twelve miles up the river and camped. The next day the march continued for thirty-three miles, passing many dim lodge pole trails. On June 24, the column again moved forward, making camp at twenty-four miles. Indian signs were growing fresh. At eleven o'clock that night the column was called out and ordered ahead, turning to the right near the divide between the Rosebud and Little Big Horn. About 2 a. m., June 25, the column halted for three hours, made coffee, then resumed its forced march. It crossed the divide and by eight a. m. was in the valley of one of the branches of the Little Big Horn. By this time the Indians had been sighted, and as it now was certain that they could not be surprised, it was determined to attack.

RECALLS SCENE OF SURRENDER

Veteran of Union Army, 92 Years Old, Witness of Historic Event

Kansas City.—(AP)—Captain Alfred Boregard of the Union cavalry sat his horse very erect and soldierly on April 19, 1865, as he watched the formalities of Lee's surrender to Grant, beneath the trees in the yard of the McCain home at Appomattox Court House, Virginia. Captain Boregard was thirty-one then, and now, at ninety-two and not quite so erect but with a certain military bearing, nevertheless, the captain sits most of the day in a swivel chair in his tiny notary office. He is the only if not one of the few survivors of the score or more officers and men who witnessed Lee's formal capitulation.

"General Lee, accompanied by an adjutant and two orderlies, rode into the yard," recalls the captain. "One of the orderlies jumped from his horse and held the bridle of Lee's mount while the Confederate chieftain dismounted."

"Lee walked toward Grant's quarters. His six-foot figure was straight and trim."

"General Grant at once emerged and advanced to meet his erstwhile adversary. Both saluted, then shook hands cordially. Grant was dressed in his field service uniform, but little different from that of the common soldier."

"A table and two chairs had been placed beneath a tree, and there, with a group of Union officers standing about, the formalities of surrender were executed."

Captain Boregard was born Sept. 10, 1834 in Jackson county, Virginia, which later became a part of the new state of West Virginia. His sympathies were with the North and he served throughout the war in Sheridan's cavalry.

WOMAN DRUGGISTS ARE POPULAR IN GERMANY

Berlin.—(AP)—Although public opinion in Germany is not wholly reconciled to yielding women a place in business and the professions, the fair sex has succeeded in obtaining nearly even terms with men in the drug dispensing line.

Women apothecaries, because of their tact and conscientiousness, are extremely popular. An increasing number take up the profession each year though the course of study requires six years.

Chicago—(P)—Unexpectedly strong contention for major league pennants is being developed in the western corners of the circuit as the long battle through the heat of July and August approaches.

Chicago, after several seasons of reverses seems determined to land somewhere. The White Sox, fighting Philadelphia desperately for second position, sent Urban "Red" Faber to lists against left Grove Tuesday, and won 1-0, the veteran of the flaming fair turning in a six hit performance only after his brilliant adversary had weakened in the ninth.

At the same time, Charley Root of the Cubs turned back the New York Giants with six safeties and captured the verdict 2-1 materially aided by Charley Grimm's home run. Pep Young's four base lift in the eighth gave New York its only run. The Cubs are battling Pittsburgh for second place in the National.

Cincinnati, which holds the circuit leadership at present, went down before the Boston Braves for the fourth straight time, 8-7, in 11 innings. It was a slugfest, in which the Braves hit safely fifteen times and the Reds 13. Andy Huh and Jack Taylor linked a single and double for the winning run.

Pittsburgh remained in the run-in by defeating Brooklyn 4 to 3. Kiki Cuyler scoring the tying run in the eighth after running wildly around the base paths all afternoon. Babe Ruth's eleventh inning homer, his second of the contest gave the Yankees a victory over Detroit 11-9, the Tanks getting 15 blows and the Tigers 14.

After Washington had tied the score in a ninth inning rally, Cleveland came through to win in its half 5-4. Pitcher Levensen's double brought the winning score.

Boston errors gave the St. Louis Browns a verdict, 6-5, the Siders scoring four times in the first on three singles and two misplays.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Inclement weather is continuing to raise havoc with the baseball schedules and the moguls are beginning to wonder if the sun is ever going to shine on Sunday, any more. Many of the week end games were called off while at others the frequent showers kept many of the fans at home.

President PreFontaine of the Fox River Valley league is making it a practice to visit at one city in the circuit every Sunday. The loop executive splits it "50-50" by sitting first on the home bench and then journeying with the visitors. In this way, he keeps peace in the family.

The announcement that the W. I. A. A. board of control had decided to divide the "going" in the annual track meet at Madison into three classes is meeting with favor in the Valley. Under the old arrangement, the Milwaukee schools were a bit too strong and they hogged all the glory.

Walking into the box with three on and none out, Len Smith made himself a hero down Kimberly way when he cut short a Green Bay rally in Sunday's game. Smith forced Woollie to pop up and then he made Chief Williams do the same thing while Clark skied to Cavil in deep right field.

Tom Johnson is going to remain at Marinette for another year, at least, according to reports from good authorities in the northern city. As yet, the crack football coach hasn't made any official announcement but it is known positively that he is laying the foundation for the eleven next fall.

Rain halted the game when Kimberly was behind 28 to 1 and there were two away in the fifth. The wet

APPLETON FANS TO GET CHEAPER RATES TO BAY

Appleton baseball fans, enthused by the snappy play shown by the Baetemen when they took Fondy into camp Sunday, will get a chance to see the locals in action against the loop-leading Green Bay crew this Sunday at lowered rates, if they desire to make the trip. The Bays beat Appleton here, 2-0, on a homerun in the opening frame.

Manager Baetz announces that the W. T. L. H. and P. Co. will allow a special fare of 90 cents for the trip if 40 fans can be signed to make the trip to the Bay by interurban. In that case a special car will carry them, going straight through to the park at the Bay with no change of cars at Kaukauna.

Persons desiring to take advantage of the offer should sign for trip at the Kingsley and Mace pool hall in the Olympia building either Thursday or Friday at the latest.

The Bus Drivers took a firm hold on first place in the W. T. H. L. and P. Co. softball loop Tuesday afternoon at Fourth ward diamond by taking its third straight win with the Gas-Power crew, one of its leading rivals as the victim. The Drivers won 12-10, showing the Gasmen far into third place. A win for the Gasmen would have tied them with the Drivers for the top.

The Busmen led, 12-4, in the first half of the ninth, but the Gasmen drove in six runs in a big rally which threatened to snatch the game from defeat, scoring on six hits and four errors by the winners. Jake Skall hurried good ball for the winners until the final frame when the losers snatched his offerings hard. Kranzuch, Grimms, Hoffman and Heins were the heavy sluggers for the Busmen and Brown, Engler and Schultz played the best for the Gas crew. Thursday afternoon the Office-Electric crew and the Railway men clash.

JIMMY ROSE GETS 76 TO TAKE 4TH IN GOLF TOURNEY

Riverview Pro Star Finishes
Three Strokes Behind Winner
in Field of 27

Jimmy Rose, star pro of the Riverview Country club, finished in a tie for fourth place in a state pro-amateur golf tournament held at the Edgerton Country club at Edgerton Monday. The work of the veteran Appleton pro was all the more noteworthy as 27 of the state's best golfers competed in the meet. The next meet of the group will be held on July 12 at the Monroe Country club.

Rose turned in a 39 and a 37 to make the course in 76, just three strokes behind first place and one behind second. Francis Gallet of the Blue Mount Country club of Milwaukee, one of the best pros in the west, won the event with 38-35-73. Next in line were Guy Martin of Maple Bluff club, Madison, with 37-37-74 and Herb Spannum, Black Hawk club, Madison, with 38-36-74. Tried with Rose for fourth was F. G. Leonard of the Milwaukee Country club with a pair of 38s. Billy Sixty, star amateur, led the amateur boys with 41-37-78, one stroke above Rose. Morgan Manchester of Maple Bluff, Madison, runner up to Ken Dickinson of Appleton, in the state amateur last year, showed that he must be reckoned with this year by a 42-38-80 score. Hank Dettloff of the Oshkosh Community links scored an 81.

Indianapolis—Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., and Al Webster Billings, Mont., middleweights, boxed to a draw (ten.)

BREWERS WIN 15TH IN ROW FOR NEW RECORD

Milwaukee—In the best curving exhibition this season, Slow Motion Joe Eddleman whitewashed the Millers Tuesday before 4,500 patrons and established a new record for the American association when the Brewers won their fifteenth consecutive game. The final figures were 2 to 0 and the contest was the fastest played here this year, in winning, the Home Brews gained a half game on the Colonels, who were idle.

Silent Joe, the "Silver Fox," had nothing on his mind except getting the opposition out as fast as possible. He pitched immaculate ball and the only Miller to reach third base was the coach.

The contest itself was devoid of the spectacular, although the atmosphere was portent with electricity. Leiveli's crack forkhand sharpshooter letting the Kels down with four widely scattered safeties, fanning three and issuing only one base on balls. Outside of the opening frame, when they got two men on base, the Kelley men were never in scoring position.

APPLETON HURLER TO PITCH FOR GRESHAM

Bruno Kraft, left-handed hurler who has been signed by the Appleton crew of the Fox River Valley loop, will get a little real experience Sunday when he hurls for Gresham in the Shawano-co loop. Gresham plays Shawano at Shawano. The new local hurler has been showing plenty of stuff in practice this week shooting a wicked left-hand hook and he should turn in a neat game in the other loop. Last Sunday, Roffke, local youngster, also hurled for an outside crew.

Appleton Boy Wins Hyde Medal For Athletic Work During College Career

John "Jake" Zussman Honored as Outstanding Athlete of Blue Graduating Class

John Zussman of Appleton, Lawrence college athletic satellite, was granted the Hyde medal on the basis of athletic prowess, scholarship and sportsmanship, according to an announcement of President Henry M. Wriston Wednesday. All men of the senior class were eligible. Zussman received a degree of Bachelor of Arts from Lawrence college at the Commencement exercises in Memorial chapel Monday morning.

This is the first time the honor has been conferred upon a Lawrence graduate. The medal was donated by Frank C. Hyde, a prominent Appleton jeweler, who plans to make the award each Commencement.

Zussman, during his four years at Lawrence, has been unusually outstanding in scholarship and athletics. He was a varsity football letterman for three seasons, playing regular quarterback one past season, and won four letters in basketball, proving one of the finest forwards that has worn the Blue in a decade or more. He was captain a year ago.

Zussman was also prominent in athletics during his years in Appleton high school.

Cleveland—(P)—Bryan Downey, Cleveland middleweight, won from Augie Ratner, New York.

Appleton high school golfers who competed in the 1926 state high school meet at Racine last weekend finished with a score of 519 go to give the Orange eighth place in a field of thirteen of the best prep link squads in the state. South Milwaukee's squad took the state title and one of her men, Arthur Radde, won the state individual championship. Racine, 1924 and 1925 tidist, finished fourth while Sheboygan the only other valley conference entry beside the Orange finished second, just one stroke behind the Cream City team. Her men including Bob Testwuide, grid and cage star, finished eighth, eighth and eleventh, but Radde's first gave Milwaukee the win by the narrow margin.

FRANCIS QUIMET—THINK OUT METHODS OF PLAY

Most golfers are not going to spend many hours in practice, much as they need to and as much as it is heard to improve their games. It is all right to tell them to do so and mighty good advice, but the trouble with it is that it will not be followed. Men play golf for the fun of it and you can make up your mind they are going to play. The average club member gets off two or three times a week, and it's a moral certainty he's going to take on a friend for 18 holes on such afternoons. It is not human to suppose he is going to his himself off to a practice field to work on his strokes.

Now, how can this sort of golfer help himself, how may he improve his game, so he will get a great deal more fun out of it and still not have to practice? That is the big problem in golf.

My tip to such golfers would be to do a whole lot of thinking about how to play the various clubs. The average golfer has all the mind required to work out all the problems of the game. But he does not apply it.

VAULT AND BROAD JUMP ONLY SAFE RECORDS IN MEET

Don't Expect Hoff, Hubbard Marks to Be Touched; Other Field Events May Be

Chicago—(AP)—Only in the broad jump and the pole vault are world records exempt from molestation by athletes who will compete in field events at the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships here Friday and Saturday.

In the opinion of most officials none of the entries is apt to surpass Charles Hoff's vault of 14 feet 4 inches, nor Dehart Hubbard's broad jump of 29 feet 10 1/2 inches both of which stand as world marks.

In all the other field events, the shot put, the discus javelin and hammer throws and the high jump, will be competitors who have flirted consistently with world records.

John Kuck of Kansas Teachers and Houser of Southern California are deemed capable of a new shot put record.

Houser already world discus throwing champion will defend his title against Kuck Hoffman Taylor and Texas Rickerson of Missouri and Doyle of Michigan. The latter two are conference champions.

Kuck who lately threw the javelin 214 feet 2 1/2 inches about three feet short of the world record held by Myra of Finland will try to better that distance in competition with Northrop of Michigan, Kreuz of Wisconsin Cook of Southern California, Dietrich of Texas A. and M. and Cox of Oklahoma former college champion.

Hawkins of Michigan leads the hammer throwers who will compete here having won at the Penn relays and the Western conference meet.

THURSDAY GAME Lions vs Rotary

In a close and hard-fought struggle Tuesday afternoon at Jones park the Kiwanis softball crew made up for its one score loss to the Rotary last week by whipping the newly-organized Y's Mens squad 5-3. The win put the Kiwanis in second place on the heels of the Rotary squad. Thursday the strong Lions open their season with the loop leaders as opponents. A Rotary win will give that crew a nice lead on the top rung while a loss will give the Lions the top a game ahead of the Rotary and Kiwanis who will be tied for second.

The losers smashed the delivery of Schlitz for eight hits but excellent fielding by his supporters held the score down. Three times two Y's Men runners were marooned on the sacks. The losers tried out three hurlers with fair success as they allowed only nine hits between them five being knocked off Bender who hurled the opening three frames. The losers took an early lead scoring in the first frame and Sager in the second. The Kiwanis added by error scored three times in the third for a 3-2 lead. In the fifth two more runs came over but in sixth R. Colvin added a score for the losers making it 5-3. In the final frame, the Y's Men put men on second and third with only one down but the two next batters could not bring in the tying run. R. Colvin fouling to third for the final out.

Warner scored twice for the Kiwanis and McCourt Reuter and McKenzie each added a tally. The feature of the tilt was a catch by H. Colvin losers first sacker. He raced up the right field hill behind first base for a fly with his back to the plate and nabbed it out of the trees while moving uphill at top speed.

Useful facts about cake making and baking will be discussed at Thursday's school. Recipes which will be worked out by Mrs. Hunt will be:

ANGEL FOOD

Whites of 12 eggs, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cups sugar, 1 level teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 cup pastry flour.

Extract to flavor. Add the salt to the whites and whip till foamy, then add cream tartar and whip till stiff, carefully fold in sugar until all sugar is used, gently fold in flour until all flour is used. Use vanilla or lemon extract to flavor. Put into an ungreased angel cake pan. Angel food cake should be very tender and sweet. It will not be close-grained because it does not contain any degree of fat whatever.

BUTTER DREAM ICING

WHITE-LAYER CAKE

One cup of butter, 1 1/2 cups of sugar, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup sweet milk, whites of 5 or 6 eggs. Extract as desired.

All entries in the cooking contest in connection with the school are to be brought to Elks club between 10 o'clock and noon Friday morning.

SOCIETY'S AIM IS SQUARE DEAL FOR CHILDREN

Moose Speaker Says Crime
Will Continue as Long as Criminals Are Made

It is the business of Moosehood to care for every little child boy and girl in the community, declared Frank R.
Lutz, Moose speaker, at a special representative of the Local Order of Moose, in his talk in Moose temple Tuesday evening.

Moosehood is a mighty movement started and maintained by the united effort of 600,000 human hearts, which has as its aim the establishment of a guaranty of the divine right of every child to proper moral and spiritual training, according to Mr. Lutz.

"If Wisconsin would fulfill the prayer of Moosehood, every door to every prison in the state could be locked for the last time," the speaker maintained.

TRACE FAMILY TREE

Results of an investigation by a United States government committee which traced the lives of two boys and their descendants were cited by Mr. Lutz. One boy's father was a workman in New York City, died when the boy was very young leaving the mother to support a large family. Lacking proper care, the boy drifted along without proper training. In 1915, the time of the investigation, the descendants of the boy had grown to a family of 2,500, consisting largely of criminals, beggars, and persons of low morality.

"That family in 1915 had cost the state of New York alone more than $2,500,000 for prisons, poorhouses, and the like. Wisconsin has its share of this kind of people," Mr. Lutz declared.

ANOTHER FAMILY

The other boy was the child of a Massachusetts minister of moderate means. He received proper training and supervision. By 1915 his family had grown to 1,300 persons, and had given this country its ablest vice-president, senators and congressmen, and had sent representatives into foreign courts. Two of its members built national railroad systems. Up to 1915 these people had not cost the state one cent of public money, the speaker stated.

Training of the latter nature for every child is the aim of Moose, Mr.
Lutz said. He pointed out that the making of criminals must be stopped if crime is to be abolished.

NO RESERVATIONS FOR SAENGERFEST

Committee Abandons Idea of Selling Reserved Seats for Concert

Reserved seats will not be sold for the general concert of all Maenmerchor of eastern Wisconsin at the saengerfest to be held in Appleton July 14, 15 and 16. It was decided at a meeting of the general committee in charge of arrangements at Hotel Eggert Tuesday evening.

A general admission of $1 will be charged for the concert and the "first come—first served" policy was adopted. The committee in charge of the tickets had first decided to charge extra for reserved seats, but this plan was not considered a good one and was dropped.

Other committees made reports at the meeting and according to William Eggert, general chairman, the work of preparing for the saengerfest is going along nicely.

A rehearsal of the Appleton Maenmerchor will be held Thursday evening at Gil Myers hall.

CATHOLIC ORDER SUBJECT OF TALK

Schmitz Will Give Principal
Speech at Sacred Heart
Program Next Sunday

The Central Society, its Activities, Past and Present will be the subject of a talk by Henry Schmitz, Appleton, at the district meeting of the Catholic Central society in Sacred Heart school hall Sunday June 12.

The address of welcome will be given by the Rev. P. J. Tynes, pastor of Sacred Heart church. The Rev. A. Garthaus of Brillion will talk on Catholic Higher Education.
Mr. Schmitz also will tell something being conducted by the Catholic Women's league. The program will include several musical numbers.

Business meetings will be held at 1:30 Sunday afternoon and a public meeting will take place at 7 o'clock. This meeting is of special importance because it takes place shortly before the national convention of the Central society, which is to be held at Springfield, Ill. following the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago.

GAME BIRDS NOW RAISED
Members of the Little Island club near Waukegan, Wis., are raising game birds with considerable success.
Expert game keepers are in charge of the work on an island several miles out in the ocean. It is proposed to release these birds on the island which is ten miles long and eventually to build up a good hunting preserve.

Small Mouth Bass Called Gamest Fish That Swims

By R. A. CLAFLIN

Almost every fisherman who has caught a Small Mouth bass, especially on light tackle, will admit that Dr. Henshall was right when he called him the gamest fish that swims. Even the salmonides will furnish you a thrill although generally taken from the quiet waters of a lake infested with lily pads. It is their strength and fighting spirit that gives you the kick. But when you hook into a Small Mouth of good size in fast water, and that is where you generally find him—you have your work cut out for you if you are using a fly rod.

In my opinion that is the proper equipment. I use a high grade split bamboo weighing five and seven eighths ounces. It requires a longer time to subdue a bass on equipment of this kind than it does if you use the stiff and deadly short rod but personally, I can make no comparison, so far as real pleasure is concerned, between the two.

A short time back I thought the finest Small Mouth bass fishing to be had was in the Mississippi river below Wabasha, Minn., and it was real sport, but not the best I outfitted at Alma, but did my fishing back of the wing dams on the Minnesota side. The first trip I made there I was told by the old guide that my outfit was all right for Sunfish and Crappies but not for the big scrappers we were to meet. However, he changed his mind and I am still using that little rod, not only for bass, but for other fish of even greater weight.

We will admit that the Mississippi bass are lively just as much so as any found elsewhere. It is their nature and you cannot change it but,

as we stated above, the environments greatly change their fighting qualities. There is quite a current in the Mississippi as it swirls around back of the wing dams but it is not a rushing torrent such as found in the Chippewa river. I had been at Wabasha, and in talking with Mr.
O'Reilly at his sporting goods store, was advised to make the trip down the Chippewa from Durand to where it enters the Mississippi, a short distance above the forest bridge, and then I would see the difference in landing fish of equal size to those I had landed in the main river.

I followed his advice and I saw

We used artificial flies and took most of our fish on a Yellow Sally and Lord Baltimore. This sounds somewhat incongruous considering that these two patterns are so unlike, but who can answer for the taste of a Small Mouth bass?

From the boat we cast among the big rocks along the shores and the hollow "smack" which followed the rush of one of those big fighters was maddening enough. And then the fast work both with rod and boat to avoid a smashed tackle, furnished us the excitement we wanted.

The distance from Durand to its mouth is about thirty-five miles and plenty of good fishing was found along almost the entire distance. We took two days in making the trip
